Background and context

According to the National Law for the Protection of Persons with Disabilities, different Governmental bureaus have the obligation to provide services for people with disabilities. All the bureaus tend to work independently and do not share the plans unless a request is coming from the Government. Networks only exist at the horizontal level because of administrative issues but there are no vertical networks within the different bureaus. People with disabilities have comprehensive needs which need coordination among the different bureaus at the vertical level.

Description of the practice

Network within the different bureaus able to fulfill the comprehensive needs of people with disabilities is one of the key elements of Community Based Rehabilitation approach. The Disability Working Committees are an existing mechanism at the national, regional, municipal and county level but often are not active. Thus the Inclusive Community Development project has worked with the partners to build a network and initiate regular meetings within the key different bureaus using the Disability Working Committee platform.

Process involved

1. Project has shared the idea of working with the 6 key Disability Working Committee members (Health, Education, Labor, Youth League, Women Federation, Civil Affair) with the partners (Tibet Disabled Persons' Federation, Lhasa Disabled Persons Federation).
2. A study tour) was organized to GuangZhou (mainland China by the project for the 6 key members at Lhasa municipality and the partners to understand the concept of Community Based Rehabilitation.

3. Meetings were organized after the study tour to get Disability Working Committee members feedback and clarify the mandate of the Disability Working Committee.
4. 3 project pilot areas were selected to start to work with local members on regular basis.
5. Later the practice was extended to Shigatse and Chamdo prefectures as the project start.
6. It was also discussed with the partner on the importance of having representatives from the persons with disabilities or their families through Self-Help Groups and Disabled Persons Organisations to attend in the committee meeting.
7. After approval from the partners, representatives from the Self-Help Groups were chosen and provided with specific training for effective participation.
8. Representatives of Self-Help Groups and Disabled Persons Organisations started the participation in the committee meeting.

The factors that made this practice possible

- Government support and attention at the local level is needed to be able to meet all the members together.
- Tibet Disabled Persons' Federation is ensuring the coordination, acting as the secretary of the disability Working Committee.

Some of the difficulties encountered

- According to the official document, 28 persons are appointed as Disability Working Committee members. The project could only start working with 6 members and later extend the scope.
- Timing that suits all the 6 members with important workload is a challenge. Individual meeting with Disability Working Committee members are organized when needed for some specific issues.
- Representatives of the bureaus attending the meeting are changing often because of limited staff. Thus there is not a specific person appointed to attend the meeting and there is no good handover of the previous meeting. It was emphasized to assign one specific person from each bureau, or a proper handover should be done in case there is a change in the person.
- Frequency of meeting and agenda should fit all the members to motivate them to continue to meet on regular base.

The effects / impact of the practice

- ✓ Through the activation of the Disability Working Committee, horizontal networks within the different bureaus were set up and strengthened.
- ✓ Inclusive Community Development project evaluation results showed that in Medrogonga, Disability Working Committee members work more closely, share resources, which help to solve the budget issues. The meetings enhance the relationship between bureaus. Before collaboration and coordination was very seldom. Now, issues related to people with disabilities are shared and each bureau can propose solutions to solve problems.
- ✓ Through the participation of Self-Help Groups and Disabled Persons Organisations representatives in some meetings, people with disabilities real concerns and issues are brought up directly at a higher level and have better chance to be heard. Solutions are more likely to be found. The practice also encourages and builds the people with disabilities' confidence.

Possible improvement

- To distribute formal document from the Government at regional and municipal level to give an obligation to the lower levels to meet on regular base and to submit the meeting report to them.
- To systematically involve representatives organisations of persons with disabilities to ensure that people with disabilities are involve in decisions that concern themselves.

Recommendations for the replication of this practice

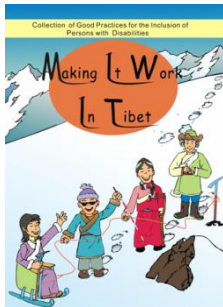

- Disability Working Committee meeting should be activated trough Government Department (not trough NGOs) to ensure long term sustainability.
- The Tibet Disabled Persons' Federation, being the Government department to protect persons with disabilities and also the Disability Working Committee secretary should ensure that local Disabled Persons' Federation takes the lead to advocate the local committee to meet regularly with the support from the chair person.

- Disability Working Committee meeting request should come from the chairperson to be able to gather and motivate the members to meet.
